

Daniel Bejarano

Resume of Failures – 2018 and Counting

In the spirit of portraying a more wholesome and accurate picture of my career development, this resume includes some of my many failed attempts, each of which came with important lessons, big and small.

Like much of what I do, this Resume of Failures was born from my internalization of ideas and actions by others. Particularly, for this resume I was inspired by Johannes Haushofer CV of Failures.

SPORTS teams I did not make the cut for

---

- 2005 Cathedral High School – JV Basketball Team
- 2006 Same as above, with a little bit more shame this time
- 2007 Cathedral High School – Varsity Basketball Team – 3rd time is not always a charm

SCHOLARSHIPS & PROGRAMS I did not get

---

- 2008 The University of Texas at Austin Undergraduate Scholarship – Misspelling “comitte” instead of “committee” in 10 different places did not help
- 2011 Technical University of Munich Study Abroad Program – Some things you have to plan way in advance. Wanting to study in Germany without speaking German can sometimes be a problem

FUNDING we did not secure

---

- 2015 Mexico’s Federal Government Funding for a Global Urban Development Project – Truly understand the other side’s interests and goals when making a request

POSITIONS I was not offered

---

- 2014 Clark – Project Engineer, Internship
- 2014 ARUP – Transactional Advise Group, Internship
- 2014 SFMTA – Finance and Information Technology Engineer, Internship
- 2016 DPR – Project Engineer II, Full Time – Do your homework before any and all interviews
- 2016 Roger’s O Brien – Project Engineer II, Full Time
- 2017 JE Dunn – Visual Design and Construction Senior Specialist, Full Time
- 2018 Katerra – Business Data Analyst, Full Time

COMPETITIONS we did not win

---

- 2015 The Associate Schools of Constructions Integrated Project Delivery Competition